

Episode 1: Why Tunisian Arabic?

Transcription

00:00:00,000 → 00:00:10,000

[Music]

00:00:10,000 → 00:00:17,000

Aslema, ou mara7ba bikom, fil podcas met3i , a7ki tounsi . ana mongia ou elyoubach na7kikom 3lech ana 9arrart na3mel el podcast hadha.

عَسَلَامَة، و مَرْحَبَا بِكُمْ، فِي الْبُودْكَاسْت مَتَاعِي، أَهْكِ تُونْسِي. أَنَا مُنْجِيَّة وَالْيَوْم بَاشْ نَحْكُلْكُمْ عَلاش أَنَا قَرَّرْتُ نَعْمَل الْبُودْكَاسْت هَذَا

00:00:17,000 → 00:00:42,000

Hello and welcome to my podcast, Speak Tounsi. I'm Mongia, and today I will tell you why I decided to create this podcast.

00:00:42,000 → 00:00:54,000

For those who don't know me, I'm a native Tunisian Arabic teacher. I've had the privilege of teaching Tunisian Arabic online to many students around the world.

00:00:54,000 → 00:01:09,000

Arabic is my native language, and I also speak English and French. I'm currently living in France, but my connection to the Arabic language and the Tunisian culture has always stayed with me.

00:01:09,000 → 00:01:20,000

That's passion, the deep love I have for my language and for the culture. That brought me here, so this podcast is a part of that journey.

00:01:20,000 → 00:01:29,000

A way to share Tunisian Arabic with those who are curious, patient, or simply eager to know something new.

00:01:29,000 → 00:01:43,000

I still remember the first time someone asked me why Tunisian Arabic? At that time I didn't have a perfect answer

00:01:43,000 → 00:01:55,000

I just knew that this dialect, the way people speak it in markets, at home, in songs and jokes, felt alive and I wanted to share that feeling.

00:01:55,000 → 00:02:11,000

As I met more and more people who were curious about Tunisia, I began to know something. They were often drawn to the culture, the food, the music, but felt lost when it came to the language.

00:02:11,000 → 00:02:24,000

Not just Arabic in general, but specifically the way it's spoken in Tunisia, the vocabulary, the rhythm, the expressions, they are unique and they don't always show up in traditional Arabic courses.

00:02:24,000 → 00:02:43,000

That's when the idea came to me. I wanted to create a space where non-native speakers could discover Tunisian Arabic step by step, not through long grammar lessons or complicated rules, but through real everyday language.

00:02:43,000 → 00:03:07,000

The kind you hear in streets, on the radio, or from your Tunisian friend, when they tell a story and suddenly everyone starts laughing. So this podcast was born. It's a space for learning, yes, but also for listening, for connecting with the culture throughout the words, it's uses every day.

00:03:07,000 → 00:03:17,000

Whether you are a learner for travel, for family, for work, or simply because you are curious, this podcast is for you.

00:03:17,000 → 00:03:27,000

Each episode where guides you through particular vocabulary, useful expressions and culture context that helps everything make sense.

00:03:27,000 → 00:03:38,000

Little by little, we will build your confidence to not just understand Tunisian Arabic, but to speak it and enjoy it.

00:03:38,000 → 00:03:45,000

Because at the end of the day, language isn't just something you study, it's something you live.

00:03:45,000 → 00:03:54,000

Stay tuned to the upcoming episodes, where a lot more to explore, and I'm excited to take this journey with you.

00:03:54,000 → 00:03:56,580

(upbeat music)

00:03:56,580 → 00:03:58,760

♪ ♪

DO NOT COPY